FINCA AMBROSIA

ARGENTINA

Located in the heart of Uco Valley, Mendoza, the owners of Ambrosia first discovered their Gualtallary site in 2002. They now produce three distinct ranges across each of their sites, showcasing some of their finest plots.

Gualtallary, situated at 1250 meters above sea level, is cultivated organically with a light touch in the vineyard. This careful management is overseen by award-winning winemakers Daniel Pi and Matias Macias.

The wines are characterized by pure fruit and balance, with a modern approach to the picking and extraction processes, resulting in a contemporary interpretation of Malbec.

The Casa range is produced and aged using a combination of stainless steel and concrete eggs, while the Viña Unica and Precioso ranges incorporate both new and used French oak.

In 2008, two old friends, Nicholas Coates and Christian Seely, embarked on a remarkable quest. With successful careers in finance and winemaking, they shared an unshakeable belief and a burning desire to create a sparkling wine to rival the best in the world.

Their journey led them to the ancient chalk downlands of Hampshire in Southern England. In a secluded valley nestled quietly in the hills, they found the perfect terroir with chalk soils and south-facing slopes. There, they planted vines and began their craft.

TENUTA DI ARCENO

TUSCANY
ITALY

Tenuta di Arceno has been a distinguished center for winemaking since the 16th century. Located at the confluence of the Ambra River, flowing north towards Florence, and the Ombrone River, flowing south towards Grosseto, this area was once a crucial part of the Etruscan civilization. The name "Arceno" is derived from the Etruscan word "archè," meaning "point of origin," honoring its historical roots.

Throughout its history, the estate has been under the stewardship of two notable Italian families – the Del Taja family, followed by the Piccolomini family. The Del Taja family began acquiring the land parcel by parcel in 1504, expanding the estate and adding architectural enhancements. In 1829, the estate was sold to the Piccolomini family of Siena, who further enriched it by building gardens, lakes, and many of the villas that still stand today.

Continuing its legacy of family ownership, Tenuta di Arceno was acquired by Jess Jackson and Barbara Banke in 1994. It was one of the first estates purchased by the Jackson Family outside of California.

CHALK HILL

SONOMA
CALIFORNIA

Established in 1972, this magnificent 1,300-acre estate encompasses 300 acres of vineyards, pristine wilderness areas, a state-of-the-art winery, a hospitality center, an organic culinary garden, a residence, and an equestrian pavilion. The winery's vineyards are meticulously integrated into the natural landscape, contoured to harmonize with the intricate terrain. Remarkably, over two-thirds of Chalk Hill Estate remains untouched. The elevated regions offer breathtaking views of the Russian River Valley to the west and the Mayacamas Mountains to the east.

At Chalk Hill Estate, the pursuit of excellence guides all winemaking decisions. Vineyardists nurture the land to produce exceptional fruit, which is carefully harvested and transported to the winery with utmost care. The winemaking team then expertly guides the grapes through the fermentation process to the final bottle. Embracing a holistic and sustainable approach, the estate's light-handed, non-invasive techniques ensure that each bottle faithfully captures the vineyard's essence.

SEBASTIANI

SONOMA
CALIFORNIA

Founded in 1904, Sebastiani wines are an integral part of Sonoma County's heritage. We are thrilled to reintroduce these wines to the UK market. In 2008, Bill Foley acquired the estate, implementing strategic changes to enhance quality. Under Foley's guidance, production was reduced to concentrate winemaking efforts on exceptional vineyard sites.

The estate vineyards have been recently replanted, carefully matched to appropriate clones and rootstocks, with farming protocols tailored to the unique geography, topography, and climate. In the cellar, numerous small lot wines are meticulously managed, allowing the winemaking team to experiment with innovative techniques. For example, a more natural approach to Chardonnay production is now employed, fermenting with indigenous yeasts found on grape skins rather than commercial yeast strains.

As a result, Sebastiani is crafting more concentrated and complex wines across all tiers, from the Sonoma County Selection to the Proprietor's Selection.

FIRESTONE

SANTA BARBARA
CALIFORNIA

Firestone is one of the premier Californian wineries, renowned for producing various European varietals due to its advantageous "Goldilocks" climate. Firestone benefits from a climate with warm, sunny days followed by brisk coastal afternoons and evenings, creating diurnal temperature variations of up to 50 degrees during the summer growing season. This location is warmer than areas to the southwest (Santa Rita Hills) and to the north, yet cooler than the eastern regions of the AVA, resulting in a viticultural "sweet spot" with a long growing season ideal for a wide range of varietals.

Firestone's estate vineyards are situated along a series of mesas composed of sandy loam with rocky sub-soils. These well-draining, low-nutrient soils minimize vine vigor, leading to more concentrated and balanced varietal flavours.
